

THE WORLD'S LARGEST SHIP, the Majestic, which when completed will operate between New York and Southampton. Launched in 1914, the 56,000-ton pride of the German merchant marine was christened the Bismarck. The Reparations Commission took her over and sold her to the White Star Line. She is 956 feet over all, 2,000 tons larger than the Leviathan, and makes her first trip next year. She will carry 3,536 passengers, a crew of 1,200, and is equipped with ballroom, theater, swimming pool, gymnasium and tennis court.

THE OLDEST AUTO IN THE WORLD. An ancient Panhard which has been transporting its owner, the Abbé Govois, Curé of Bainville, France, for the last thirty-three years. International.

MISS MARY RUTTER TOWLE, Assistant United States Attorney for the Southern New York District—appointed by Colonel William Hayward—the first woman east of the Mississippi to hold such an office.

Misses Selby.

Right—THE LATEST IN AFRICAN GOLF. Lawn dice, a sort of a glorified crap game, the result of a recent Los Angeles inspiration, is gaining great popularity on the Pacific Coast, particularly with the fair sex. Here's a comely member of a joyous trio showing our camera man how it is done while she pleads for a "natural."

Left—RAISING A NATURAL BORN FLYER. Dr. Bade, of Glenhead, L. I., shows how he brought his pet flying squirrel up from infancy via a medicine dropper and a milk diet. These interesting little animals, quite common around New York, but seldom seen because they keep pretty much indoors during the daytime, are easily tamed and make splendid pets.

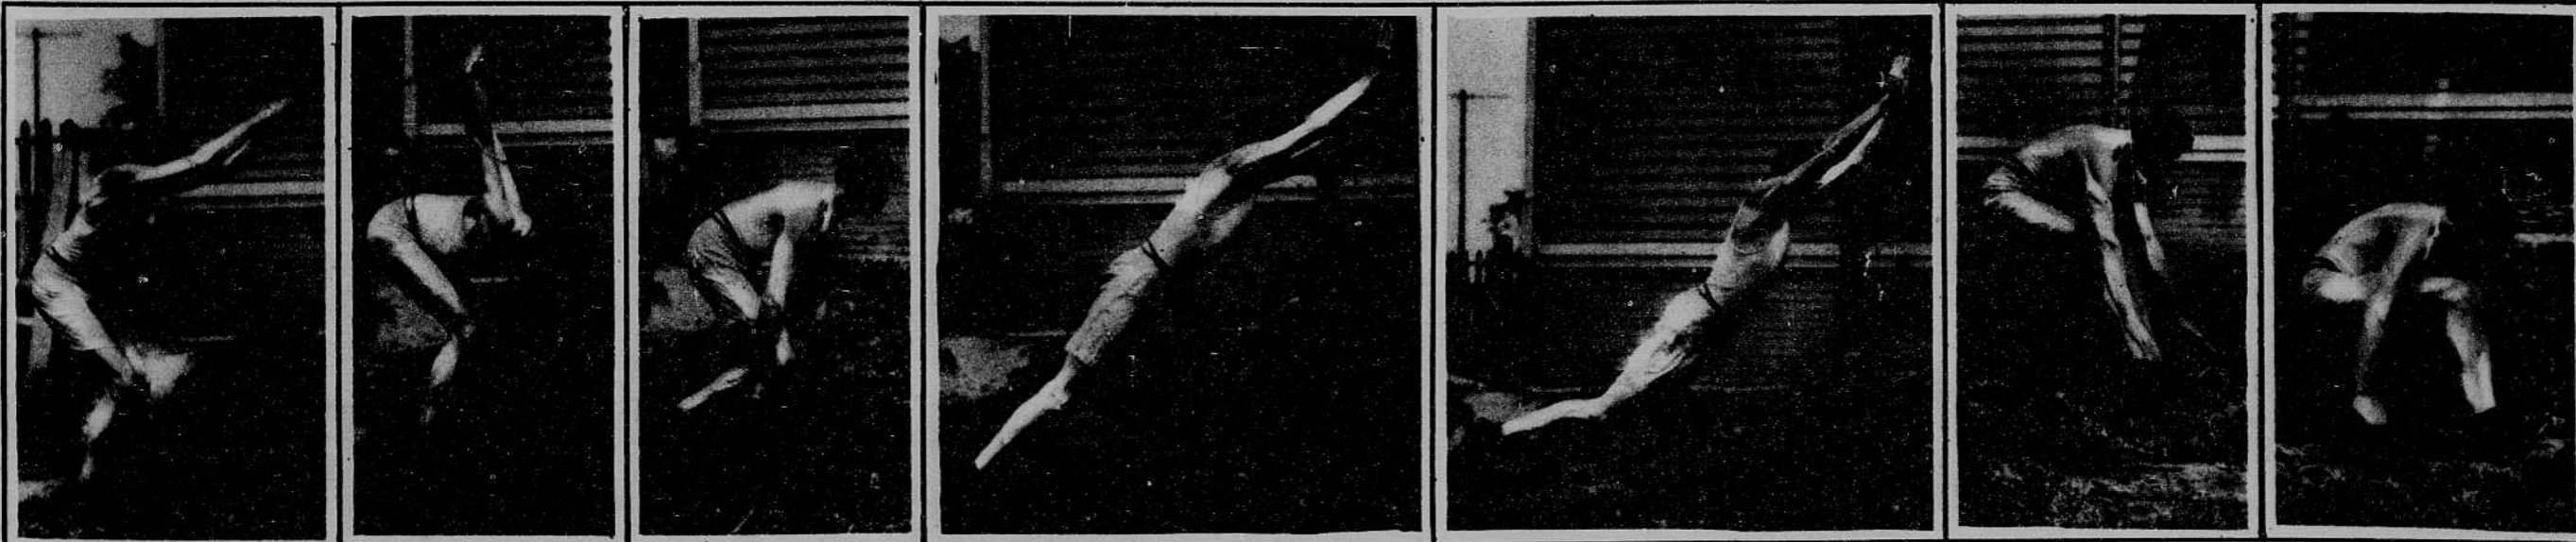

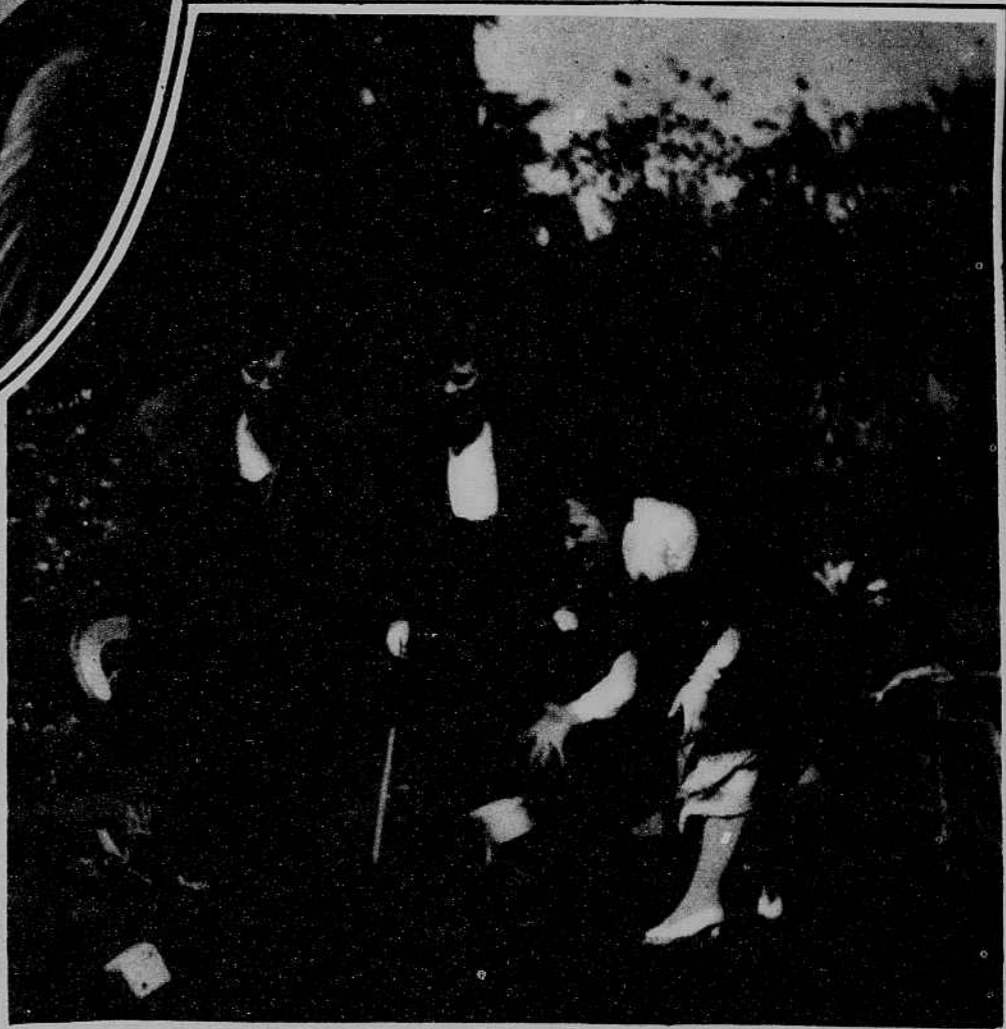

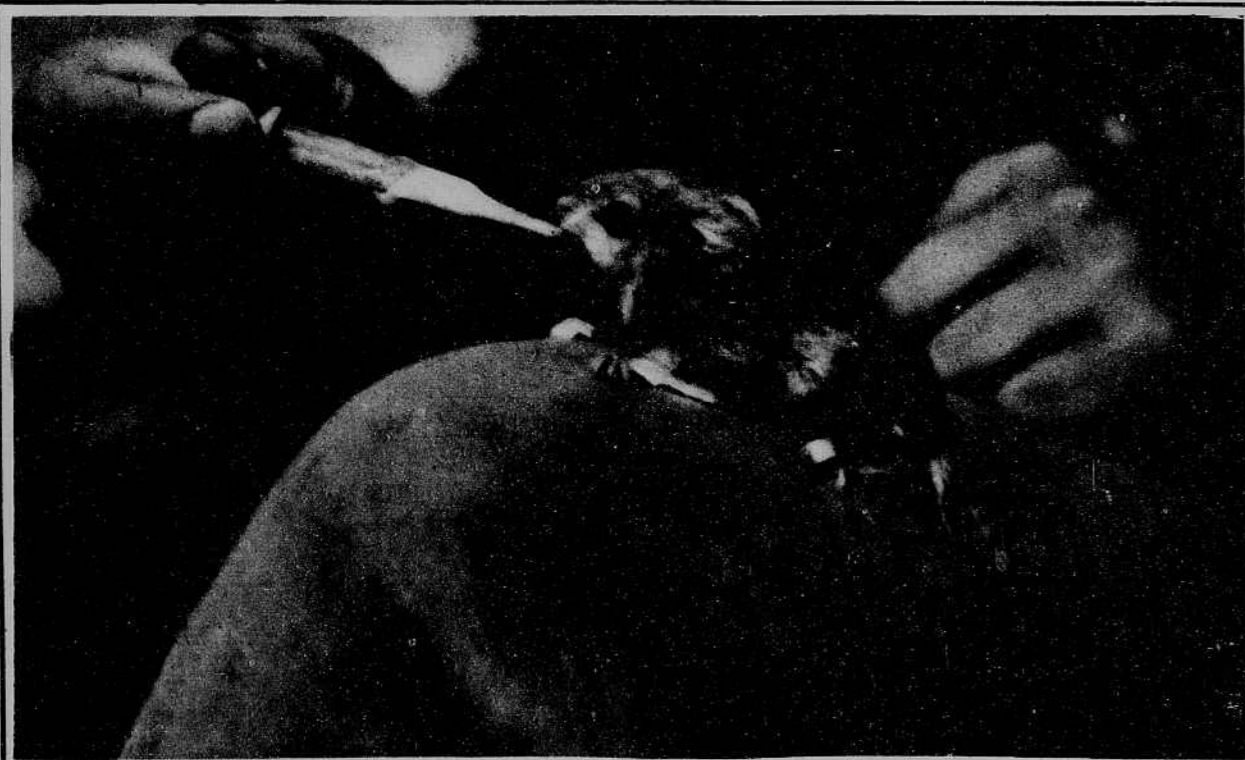

MRS. CYRUS E. WOODS, whose husband, Cyrus Woods, of Greensburg, Pa., Secretary of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, has recently been nominated by President Harding as Uncle Sam's Ambassador to Spain. Mr. Woods, who was Minister to Portugal in President Taft's administration, succeeds Mr. Joseph B. Willard, Archie Roosevelt's father-in-law.

SEAGULL SHOOTING IN CENTRAL PARK. Dan O'Connor, custodian of Central Park's reservoir, who lives the quietest kind of rural existence right in the very heart of New York's millions, never misses a shot, because he uses only blank shells. Dan's job for the past twenty years has been to see that the waters of the big pond in his charge do not become contaminated.

Gilliams.

THE BROAD JUMPER. Seven interesting camera shots that graphically illustrate just how the standing broad jumper makes his leap. Study this lanky athlete's form, boys—note the position of his arms and legs at various stages of the jump—try it out yourself and perhaps some day you'll be able to beat Ray Ewry's world record of 11 feet 4 1/4 inches, made seventeen years ago.
